CHEERLEADING IS . . .

To be a cheerleader you have to go through many different things. You have to have determination, coordination, dedication, and lots of spirit!

The first thing is cheerleading tryouts. Cheerleading tryouts are held toward the end of the school year. The candidates go through three days in which they are taught cheers, jumps, and a pom-pom routine. Then they are judged and two cuts take place. The first cut is made by teachers. The second cut is made by people who have been cheerleaders before in high school.

After the squads are picked, then starts the really hard part! Practices are held all during the summer and at least once a week during the school year. The practices in the summer are held at different cheerleaders' houses, usually the captains'. There is also cheerleading camp during the summer in which the squads from different schools throughout Roanoke County go and compete with each other. This past year, it was held the first week of August. The girls put in a lot of hard work. They worked almost seven hours every day learning different cheers, jumps, and stunts.

The two squads, Red and White, cheer for football, boys' basketball, girls' basketball, volleyball, and wrestling. They alternate games and sometimes have up to three games a week! They held three pep rallies this year to raise spirit. Something new was added this year. A spirit stick colored red, white, and black, was awarded to the grade with the most spirit. The ninth graders won and the stick was placed in the possession of Mikki Hall, our SCA president.

There are many different activities planned to raise money for the squads. At the end of last year, the squads sold cleaner and also had a bake sale. At the beginning of this school year, they sold spirit buttons and had another successful bake sale.

The White Squad does a half-time routine during a basketball game.

Administrators Work Never Ends

Mr. McClellan is the principal at Cave Spring Junior High. He has been principal here for twelve years. Four of those years, he was assistant principal. He taught in the classroom for eight years before becoming principal. He has attended Univ. of W. VA., Western Illinois where he received his B. S. and M. S.

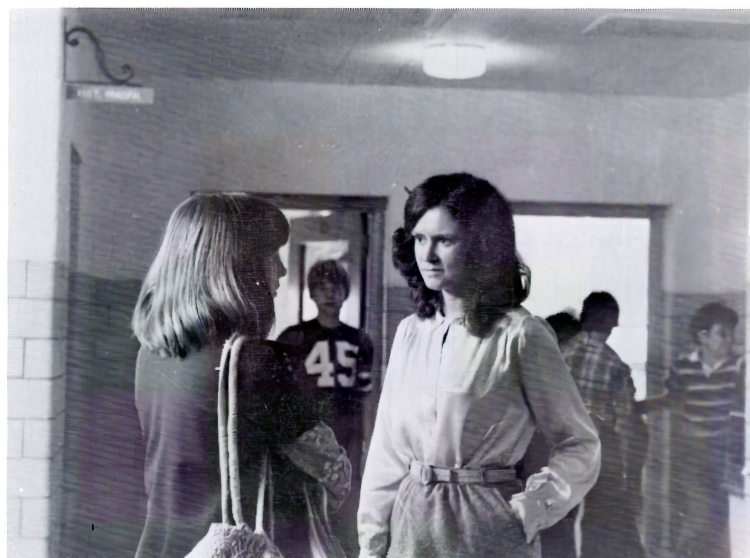

degrees, and he has done graduate work at Marshall and also UVA. He enjoys being principal. His comment towards the school is as follows: "I enjoy the experiences that one gains while working with students of the junior high age."

Mr. Akers is one of CSJH's assistant principals. He received his B. A. at Roanoke College, his M. Ed. at UVA, and is now working on his doctorate degree at the Univ. of Maryland. He has taught graduate courses in environmental education at UVA. He was also the science department chairman at CSHS where he taught physics and math. Mr. Akers comment about the school is as follows: "Our student body at CSJH is generally very cooperative and a pleasure to work with."

Mr. Weaver is one of CSJH's assistant principals. He has been assistant principal here for two years. He was also an assistant principal at South View Elementary. He taught health and gym at Glenvar Elementary for two years and also taught health and gym here for three years. He received his masters degree at VPI, his B.S. at Appalachian State, and his associate degree at Wingate. Mr. Weaver enjoys his job and says "It is a challenging job that is never the same from day to day."

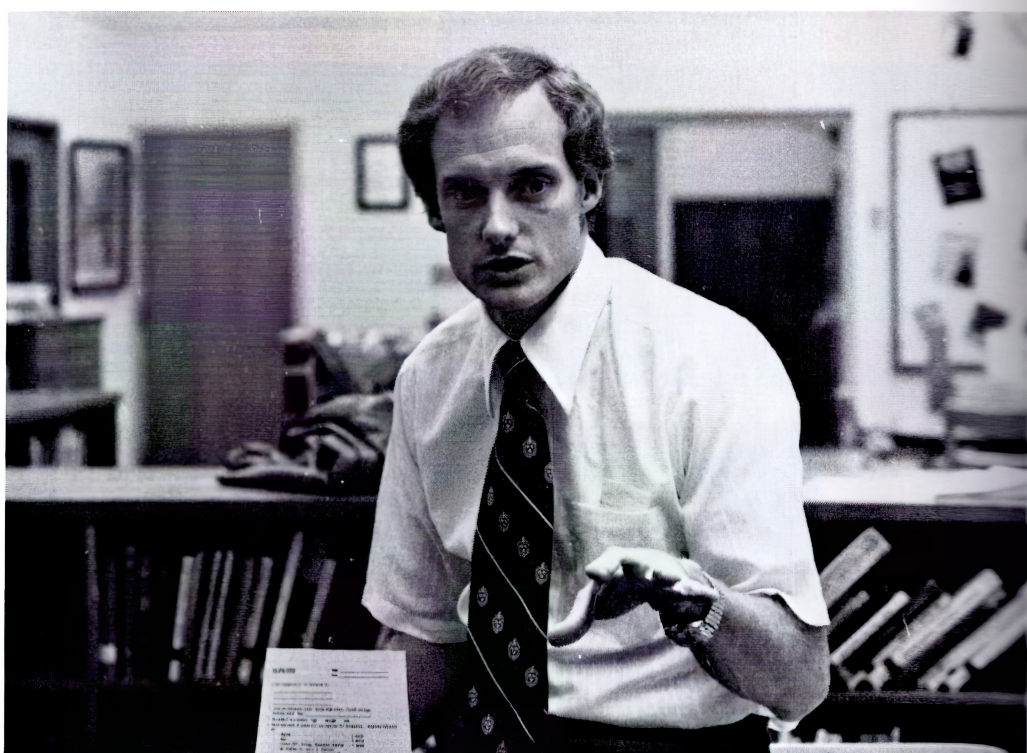

Understanding Counselors Help Students

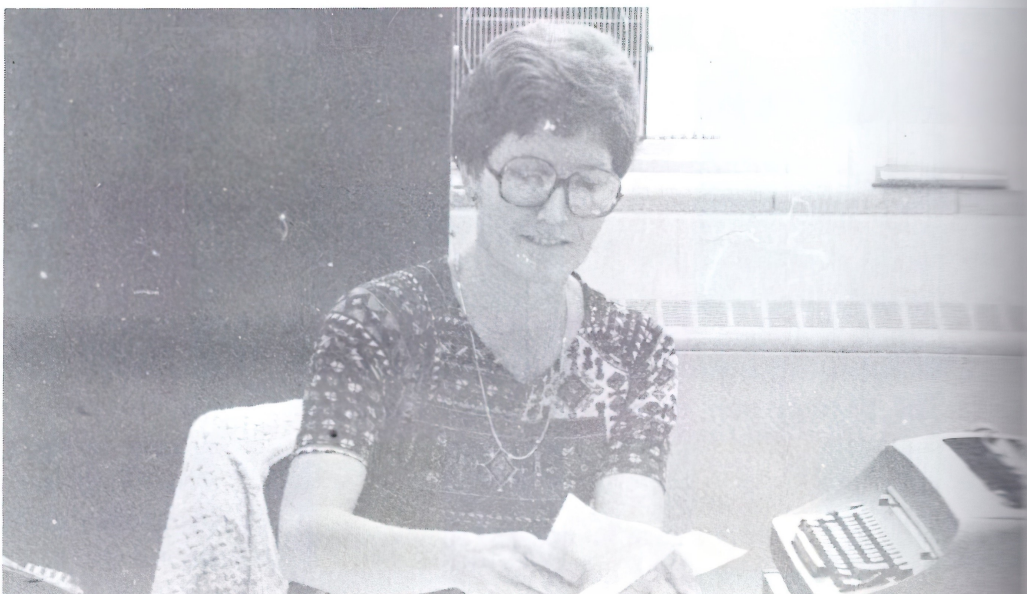

Miss Tillman, our seventh and eighth counselor, talks to Miss Davis about her eighth grade students.

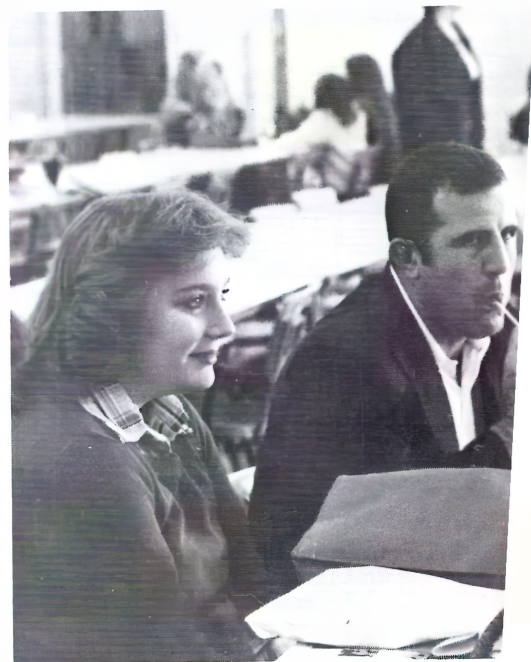

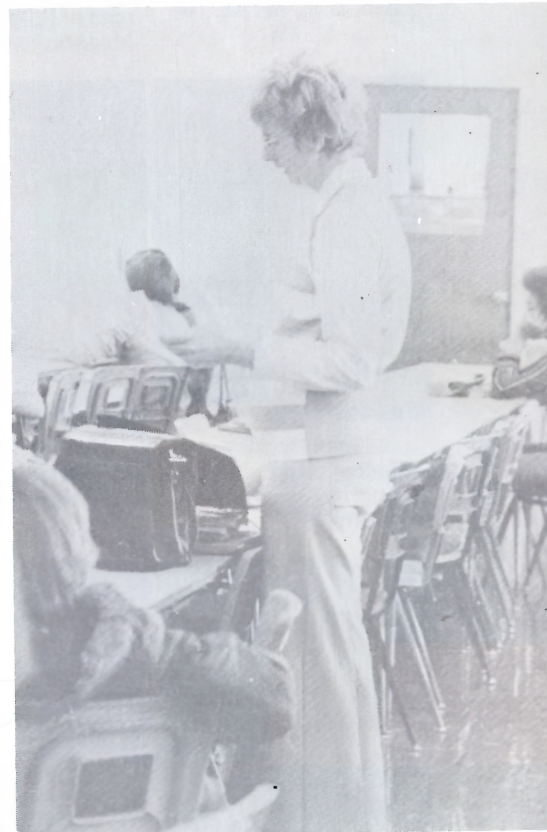

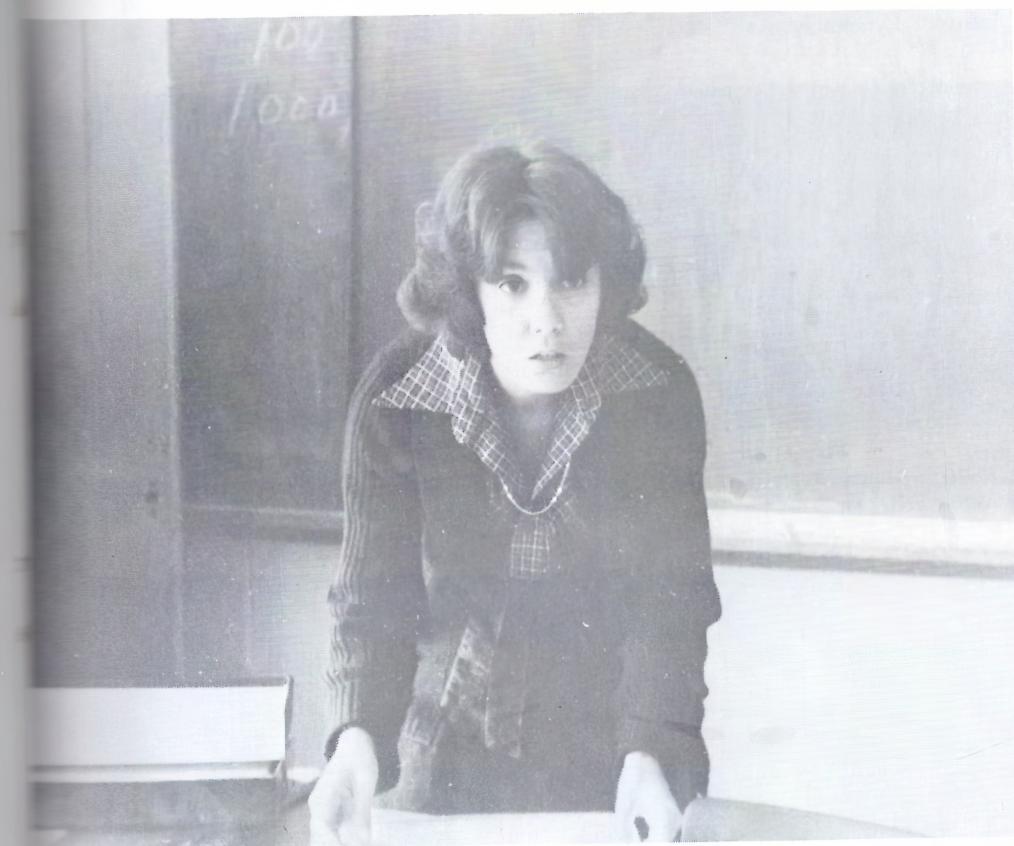

Mrs. Barnhart, our sixth and eighth grade counselor, prepares an eighth class for the semester exam.

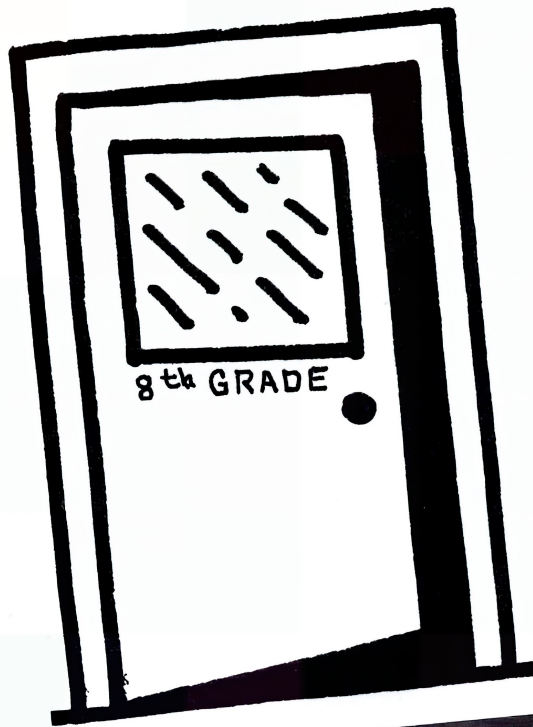

Mr. McClung, our ninth grade counselor, and guidance coordinator, informs parents about the ninth grade program at Back to School Night.

Mrs. Biggs, a hard-working guidance secretary, happily stuffs an envelope.
